Dear Ignacio,,

I hope you're doing well. I wanted to take a moment to address the recent concern regarding your wrongful accusation of me driving through a pothole when in fact I couldn't avoid hitting a metallic object that caused a tire to blow out. I take honesty and integrity very seriously in my work, and I believe there may have been a misunderstanding.

I would appreciate the opportunity to clarify my position and provide any necessary evidence to resolve this matter. If there's any information I can offer to help clear up any confusion, please let me know.

I value open communication and professionalism, and I am committed to ensuring we maintain a positive and productive work environment. Please let me know a convenient time when we can discuss this further.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Best regards,
Peter Wolf

Hi Rafael and Meredith,

Thank you for reaching out earlier today about your investigation for vehicle 359.

I thought I would share the letter I mentioned that I emailed to Ignacia regarding another incident. Ignacio never responded to this email. I also mentioned another incident where I hit a truck tire tread and didn't think I caused any damage but later Israel found one of the vehicle sensors damaged.

In both incidents I felt that my report was not believed and my integrity questioned. Ignacia even mentioned something like "Peter this is twice now that there was a problem...." suggesting that a third time might cause my termination. Under such circumstances, I can see why someone would be reluctant to report an incident. Not me, but others may be more dependent on their work at VW.

I would prefer you keep my report to you between us but I hope it will help in your investigation.

Thank you,
Peter Wolf

PS. Meredith, your SAP Training today was terrific and informative.

Hello Peter,

Thank you for reaching out. For clarification, the phone call in the morning was with @Garcia, Ariana, our HRBP in California.

Best

Raffael
